Expose of Midnight Party Brings Fines; Policemen Deny It

Hall, Morgan and Clark Assessed $10 and Costs Ewing and Bates' Fates with Police Commission to Act Monday—Conflicting Evidence Heard on Question of Patrolmen's Attendance at Marie Tressie's Home.

A complete investigation was made this morning in the police court of the "party" at Marie Tressie's house on Liberty Hill during Tuesday night which led to the issuance of warrants against W. C. Hall, prohibition agent, and City Police Officers G. M. Ewing and O. W. Bates, Walker Clark and Harry Morgan, the latter, citizens.

The hearing resulted in fines of $10 being imposed on Hall charged with being drunk and disorderly, Harry Morgan for being drunk and Clark charged with being drunk and disorderly.

In the cases of Police Officers Ewing and Bates, these will be determined on Monday morning at 10 o'clock by the police commission.

Members of the commission present this morning to hear the evidence were F. W. Townes, Guy Walton, J. W. Yarbrough and the mayor. It is assumed that they will meet on Monday and will hear what the officers have to say. All of the witnesses for the prosecution are to be back Monday to give evidence if called upon.

Last night both Ewing and Bates denied hotly that they had been at Marie Tressie's house on the night in question. Ewing told the chief that he would fight the case to the bitter end. Bates says he was in the neighborhood of Marie Tressie's house looking for a scrub woman to be hired during a house-moving operation.

There was no evidence on the part of the police officers who answered Marie Tressie's call that any of the men involved were at the woman's house when they arrived. The state- ment that the two Danville policemen were there is that of the woman herself who insistently asserted that Bates and Ewing were there and that they had been there on "friendly visits" before.

Clark and Morgan all testified today that Bates and Ewing were not there.

Against this situation, however, is presented by colored witnesses who testified today they were around Marie Tressie screaming "The police force is tearing up my house."

The case was delayed owing to the failure of Marie Tressie to arrive on time. While waiting for her, the courtroom rapidly filled with an expectant throng, while the corridor buzzed with gossip about the case this ranging from "frame-up" to vindication of the police commission, while nearly everybody was interested in forthcoming disclosures. As soon as a few trifling cases had been disposed of, Marie Tressie arrived. Counsel for Police Officers Ewing and Bates asked for a continuance until Monday of their cases, as there were two important witnesses to be heard. Mayor Wooding said that he would reserve his decision on those cases, but he intended to hear the evidence of the witnesses summoned for today.

When Marie Tressie arrived, she reported that Kittie Harrison, a vital witness for the prosecution, was too ill to be present. Mrs. Tressie, who

Blood Stains Lead To Shooting Arrest

James Talley was shot and wounded in the foot this morning about 11:30 o'clock by Suddie Moore, who operates a boarding house on lower Main street. Mrs. Moore has been bonded for her appearance in court Tuesday morning.

The shooting was first discovered by Police Officer Jack Adams. He was walking down the street and noticed spots of blood on the pavement for some little distance. He traced the prints to another rooming house a few feet below the Moore place. Here the officer found Talley and after questioning him learned that he had been shot in the foot by Mrs. Moore at her boarding place. Talley had little to say of what led up to the shooting.

Officer Adams immediately went to the Moore house and questioned Mrs. Moore. She told him that she had shot Talley after he had refused to leave the premises after being ordered out for using profane language before her two small children. She says that Talley began cursing and became disorderly and that she ordered him to vacate. This he refused to do and told her that nobody could put him out. The woman alleges, whereupon she fired a revolver towards the floor, the bullet striking Talley in the foot. After the shooting he left and went to his living quarters a few doors down the street.

President To Keep His Hands Off Fall Elections For Congress

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Congressmen and State officials coming up for reelection in November will get no public aid from President Harding. It was stated at the White House today that the President is determined to let the coming campaigns severely alone.

Board of Morals Flays Jazz Dance

Temperance, Prohibition Organization in "Clip Sheet" Exposes "Evils" of Pastime.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, which issued the "clip sheet" for the Anti-Saloon League, has taken up the question of jazz. Under the head "Is Jazz a Menace to American Youth or a Harmless Evening Amusement?" it publishes the report of Dr. William McKeeever, one of the organization's secretaries, who is described as "a very distinguished authority on child life."

Dr. McKeeever's detailed analysis of the effects of the modern dance could hardly be printed except in a medical journal. The board issues its "clip sheet" with an invitation to the press to use its portions, but disclaims any intention "to accuse millions of puny minded and reputable dancing young people of erotic thought."

Dr. McKeeever begins: "After studying the matter from every angle and throughout a territory extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, I am convinced that the modern dance is distinctly an enemy of morals, of common decency and of the Christian religion." He summarizes "the evils of the dance at the point where it does its worst damage—the high school age," under these headings: physical damage, physiological damage, intellectual damage.

The first of these divisions reasons that because of "the tense overexerting and an excess expenditure of energy, low vital energy is the normal immediate consequence."

The dance, we are told, overexerts the mind and emotions. The fast and jerky music "speeds up what we call reaction time far beyond its normal index, inducing a mental intoxication

Treasury Head Calls on Manufacturer for Details of Fortune Returned to U. S.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 29.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has called for a showdown on the re-estimated statement that Henry Ford returned about $29,000,000 of war profits to the government. The statement contained in a letter addressed by the secretary to Mr. Ford asking the time and circumstances of the return of this money. Secretary Mellon, through his secretary, admitted that he had written a letter to Mr. Ford and that Mr. Ford's secretary had acknowledged it.

When the assertion of the return of the enormous amount of war profits, "for use as the government might see fit," was made, inquiry at the treasury disclosed no one who had ever heard of it. When the book "The Truth About Henry Ford" made its appearance with more specific details about these profits and their return to the government, the War Department, Navy Department and Treasury instituted a minute examination.

Recently all three departments declared that so far as they could determine Mr. Ford could not possibly have made that much money.

In a letter to a senator who had inquired concerning the $29,000,000, Mr. Mellon stated recently "I have had this matter investigated in the treasury and find that the records do not show the receipt of any donation from Mr. Ford. I have accordingly written direct to Mr. Ford for information as to how the matter stands from his point of view."

Secretary Mellon also points out in his letter that no reductions were made by Mr. Ford in any of his contracts with the government, so the $29,000,000 could not have been returned in that manner.

HOPEWELL, March 29.—Funeral services for Richard Eppes, about 58 years old, who was known as the founder of Hopewell, and who shot and killed himself early yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. John's Episcopal church, City Point. A double-barreled shotgun was used to end his life, the victim's head being blown off while he was in a barn. His health is ascribed as the cause of his tragic act.

Mr. Eppes had large business interests in Hopewell and at City Point. He was a member of the "Appomattox Manor" and Eppes Island. He was for a number of years a vestryman of St. John's church, City Point, and the Eppes family has for a long time been identified with that church. Besides a widow, Mr. Eppes is survived by one daughter, Miss Alice Eppes; two sons, Richard and James Eppes, and three sisters—Miss Mary Eppes, of "Appomattox Manor," Mrs. A. R. ## Dreams Meaningless Declares Alienist LONDON, March 29.—Dr. William James, a mental specialist and head of the department of psychology in King's College, University of London, in a novel theory of dreams, rejected the claim of the psychoanalysts that they are always significant, that every part of them has a meaning which must be looked for in the subconscious mind. He gave them a much simpler significance. "The function of a dream is to guard sleep," he said before the institute of Hygiene. "In sleep desires, cravings, anxieties, the memories of earlier days, all of which are the chief and fundamental elements of the mind, well up and strive toward consciousness while the main personality is in abeyance. If they reach consciousness, sleep is at an end. This theory covers the entire ground of all types of dreams."

Despondent Girl Dies of Bullet

Operation Fails to Save Miss Carrie Welch, Depressed Over Fiance's Death.

BALTIMORE, March 29.—Miss Carrie Welch, who became despondent when her fiance, William J. Welch, was killed in an automobile accident on February 13 and who shot herself in the head after eating dinner at her home Monday night, died at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning at St. Joseph's hospital. An effort to save the girl's life, an operation was resorted to, but physicians admitted that her condition was beyond the aid of surgery.

George Welch, her brother, yesterday expressed the belief that his sister had been contemplating death for several weeks. Her family, he said, noticed that she had changed considerably since the fatality to her fiance, but considered it only natural, and had hoped that she would soon recover her spirits.

Miss Welch, her brother said, went to work at a department store Monday morning as usual. Some time during the day, he believes, she purchased a new pistol, and returned home in the evening she did not bring back with her her small enameled box in which she was accustomed to carry her lunch. Instead, she had a package, which she made no effort to conceal.

After eating supper, she said that she was going to retire. During the meal she was apparently in the best of spirits. As she started up the stairs to her room she bade her mother, Mrs. Roas Welch, "Good-night," and then added, "Good-night forever."

A few minutes later the family heard a dull noise, which at first they believed to be some one knocking at the front door. Ascertaining that no one had come, they went to the girl's room and found her across her bed with a revolver near her hand. The girl was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital.

she made formal complaint about the behavior in her house and swore out warrants after a conference with Chief of Police Bell and the three sergeants. Further examined by Hall, who conducted his own case, and who proved a rather adroit interrogator, she developed that she had not seen Hall for three years.

As soon as the mayor indicated that he was about to try all of the accused together, Hall asked to be tried separately, and he gained his point.

Ezekiel Hodge, a negro storekeeper, testified that Hall called at his store at 4 o'clock and asked for cigarettes, which he gave him. Hall appeared sober to the negro.

Nannie Johnson, colored, testified she heard Marie Tressie screaming, but knew nothing else. J. H. Hodge, colored, heard six shots fired and heard Marie calling out and appealing for protection from the police.

The mayor at this juncture, having exhausted the list of witnesses, asked the chief of police and the sergeants if any of them had sent police officers Tuesday night on any mission to Marie Tressie's house. The answer was negative.

Hall then put Officer Bates on the stand and asked him if he considered that he (Hall) was drunk. The officer said "No."

The next witness was Harry Morgan, popular song writer, formerly of New York city, whose songs today are featured in the vaudeville houses of the country. Morgan was put on the stand by Hall, who asked the witness if he had seen Hall strike Marie Tressie. Morgan readily assumed the blame for hitting the woman. This is what happened, according to Morgan's statement: He was in the kitchen alone with Marie Tressie, writing a letter. He was in the kitchen, playing the Victrola. Suddenly, he said, Marie Tressie "threw a fit" and she rushed through the house "like a maniac," with a pistol in her hand. Morgan said that he ran out to see what was the matter, and the woman put the gun up at him and ordered him out of the house. He asked time enough to get his coat and hat, and as he passed her, he grabbed the pistol away from her. In the struggle, he snatched her and the pistol went off several times. Morgan said that he saw only three men in the house, Hall, himself and a man whose name he did not know. He said that he did not see Ewing or Bates there. He testified that they arrived at the woman's house at 1 o'clock in the morning, and remained there until 4 a. m.

Hall when asked by the mayor if he wished to testify, declined to do so, and rested his case there. Mayor Wooding said he would render an opinion after hearing the other cases.

The cases against Walker and Marie Tressie were next taken up. Marie Tressie, who swore to the warrants, told practically the same story as in the Hall case. She reiterated that all five of the men against whom she brought charges were at her home on Tuesday night, or rather Wednesday morning. She said that Clark was drunk and very disorderly. Tressie stated that he was at her house when Morgan, Morgan, Bates, Ewing and Hall came, all of them in a body. She said that in a short while, all hands went into the back of the house and took drinks together, and that the first thing she knew, "the whole house was drunk."

Developments then came quick, according to the woman, and she said she soon saw Hall and Clark with guns drawn on each other, and after the firing, she went for the police.

Marie Tressie testified that Morgan was drinking heavily but was not disorderly in any way and immediately left the house when she demanded him to do so.

Neither Morgan nor Clark had very much to say in their behalf. Their only testimony was through interrogation by Hall when his case was being heard.

These cases were then brought to a close and fines of $10 and costs each were imposed on Hall, Morgan and Clark. It had already been announced that the cases of Ewing and Bates would be postponed until Monday. All of the witnesses, including the three men tried, were put under a recognized bond for their appearance in court Monday morning at 10 o'clock, when the other two cases will be resumed before the police commission.

Police Officer J. T. Clark, one of the policemen who answered Marie Tressie's call was next sworn in. He and Officer O. T. Cook were picked up on Craghead street on Tuesday night by Sergeant Haraway and they hastened to Liberty Hill to answer the emergency call. Clark said that as they neared the old still house not far from the woman's house they heard a shot and soon came upon Hall, Bates and Clark. They denied having been at Marie Tressie's house. Hall and Clark, the officer testified, were drunk but Bates was not drunk. No arrests were made and they had no weapons. The officers then found Marie Tressie in "bad condition." He quoted her as saying "The police force has been tearing up my house." Police Officer Clark then repeated what the prosecutrix had said on the stand.

Hall in cross-examining the witness, asked why he said he was drunk no charge was brought against him and why he was not arrested. The officer opined that while "pretty full" he was not drunk enough to be arrested. Hall then asked how, if he was drunk he could have made his way across a log bridge spanning the creek nearby. Police Officers O. T. Cook and Sergeant Haraway successively testified and virtually corroborated what Clark had said. Haraway, leader of the squad, said that Hall and Clark were "pretty full" but the Bates was not drinking. He said that he saw Mrs. Tressie very excited and he repeated the names of the persons represented by the woman as having been in the place. These names were Hall, Ewing, Bates, Clark and Morgan. Haraway said that after hearing the woman's story he told her that if you want to make any charge come to the courthouse tomorrow morning.

Harry Ferguson, the next witness, knew nothing of Hall's conduct and was excused.

Mary Williamson, colored, was next sworn. She is the mother of the woman who was shot. She said that she was at her home near Marie Tressie's. Eight or nine shots were fired, she said some of the shots were within the house and some outside. She heard Marie screaming.

Bud Williamson, colored, testified that he saw the hard shots. Following them came the shrill voice of Marie Tressie shouting "Murder, Murder, Help Me, the police force is taking advantage of me." "The next thing I knew," he continued, "Mrs. Tressie came to my house and offered me a dollar to get the law."

The large audience by this time was laughing openly at the negro's testimony and the mayor said that he would clear the court unless better behavior was observed.

One of the developments at today's hearing, showing a variance with the first accounts of the episode, was that none of the persons charged were actually found at Marie Tressie's house when the police arrived. The understanding was yesterday that Sergeant Haraway and the two officers who answered the call had found some of those involved at the house, but this was shown not to be the case through the testimony of witnesses.

A good deal of speculation was indulged in today regarding the action of the police commission on Monday, especially insofar as it would affect Ewing. Ewing's term as a local policeman expires at midnight, tomorrow night, when the three recently elected policemen will come on. By Monday Ewing will, therefore, be beyond the reach of the police commission, since he will no longer be a member of the department.

Hall will remain in the city until Monday, when is summoned as a witness before the police commission. If he is called on to testify it will be his first appearance in the role of a witness. This morning he was engaged in combatting a charge of intoxication. What he will have to say before the commissioners regarding the alleged commission in the house, at which he is said to have had a "ring-side seat," remains to be heard.

Sues His Wife's Former Husband

NEW YORK, March 29.—Alleging that George T. Williams, said to be a millionaire shipping promoter, had alienated the affection of his wife, William J. Lester, of Seattle, Wash., brought suit in the supreme court at White Plains yesterday, against him for $5100,000 damages. The summons and complaint were filed with County Clerk Ellrodt by Reinhold H. Schenck, of No. 42 West 42nd street, Manhattan, attorney for Mr. Lester.

Mr. Lester in his complaint set forth he was married to Mrs. Lester on Nov. 2, 1917, at Seattle. He said that on March 20, 1920, the defendant went to Seattle accompanied by his wife and infant daughter and remained there until June 1, 1920, when, when he asserts, Williams returned to this city, leaving his wife and child in Seattle.

While in Seattle the complaint continues, Williams lavished costly presents on Mrs. Lester. He also alleges that Williams induced her to follow him to Manhattan and live with him at No. 203 West 94th street.

The plaintiff says Williams formerly was the husband of Mrs. Lester and that she got a divorce from him some years ago. The complaint states that the defendant then was in poor financial condition and did not provide proper support for her. It is asserted that Williams now owns property valued at several millions of dollars.

Mr. Lester says his wife told him she was going to accompany her husband to her home in Camden, N. J.

THURSDAY, MARCH 29, 1922.
AMUNDSEN'S EXPEDITION.

AMUNDSEN'S EXPEDITION.

The whole world will watch with particular interest the proposed polar trip by Roald Amundsen, the famous Norwegian explorer who has just arrived in America with members of his expedition and who will begin immediately making plans for his new undertaking—the conquest of the North Pole which has thus far resisted the efforts of man to penetrate the icy barrier which shrouds it.

The intrepid explorer who counts as nothing the seven years he and his comrades may have to spend in the icy fastnesses of the far north and the possibility of disaster and death such as has been written on the pages of history in the past when brave men have gone to their death in the great adventure drawn by the strange lure of an unknown and an unpeopled country. This time, however, the method of attempted conquest will be different and the long period of isolation will not have the horrors it has held for other adventurers. Roald's ship, the Maude, named after the Norwegian queen, will be in touch with the world continuously by radio and every twenty-four hours, provided his well-laid plans go not awry he will be in communication with America to make his daily report. It is even asserted that radio receiving stations in western Canada and in Alaska will all be privileged to hear the voice of the Norwegian recounting his log for the benefit of posterity from his ice-locked position, so powerful will be his transmission station. He will carry airplanes too, all metal ships which, during the long drift in the ice floes towards the pole, will safely forthcharting the unknown region and finally a dash will be made for the pole itself. Amundsen hopes to hover literally over the roof of the world where he will attempt to make a dead reckoning of his position. His airplanes will have cabins which will be stocked with food and the machines will have low-powered radio devices, whereby the pilot and crew of the airplane will be enabled to keep in touch with the mother ship.

The expedition on paper indeed recalls Jules Verne and his absorbing dreams in fiction. It is a far cry from theory to realization, however, and when one considers the manifold dangers of the exploit perils of an unknown region which must be overcome by native ingenuity, the Amundsen undertaking presents a task for hearts of steel and men with high qualities of physical endurance. Can he safely count of theoretical assurances that his airplanes will be operative in the frigid atmosphere of the polar region? Will his whaling vessel withstand the pressure of the ice in which it will be locked and which has in previous expeditions of other men crushed the ships like tinder? These are questions which will test the courage of the Viking descendants.

Dry Commissioner Plans to Carry Out State's Ouster Law

Scoop's Colyum

DRAKES BRANCH, March 28.— (Grapevine Wireless.)—Here is our first springtime "inspirational" story about interesting people:

Starting in as a foundling, Squint Spivins, in the short period of 75 years, has amassed four sections of land, three wives, an inglorious which and two private suits.

The reason for his tremendous success will no doubt be found in the love he holds for his work. He loves the rich, black soil and usually has quantities of it clinging to the back of his neck and in the recesses of his ears. But of all the things he likes, chickens are his greatest favorite, as his wife recently testified in the divorce courts.

Hiring out to a parsimonious old farmer at the tender age of ten years, he states that the lessons in hogghisness he learned from them resulted in his accumulating so large a fortune.

When only 15, he was regarded as the champion corn grower of the whole county, having raised as many as ten corns at one time. By the time he had reached 21, he was famed everywhere for his large crops of wild oats.

In recent years, he has extended his activities to the raising of alfalfa and new sports a luxuriant crop of it on his chin.

The most startling new inventions which he has introduced into farming are, the feeding of broken cups, plates and saucers to chickens, raising instead of laying hens, and eggs which bring a much higher price than the regular hen's vegetable; and a patent method of untying the knots in cordwood.

When asked if there was any advice that he would give to young farmers struggling for success, "Squint" shifted his tobacco spit reflectively, then said:

"I allus sed ez' how the men folks sh'd use their brains 'n' make the woman folks use their hands."—H. A.
Perrill in "The Fun Book."

Appoints Three Director Agents Who Will Travel State and See That Of- ficials Live Up to Respon- sibilities.

RICHMOND, March 29.—Declaring that the prohibition enforcement situation in Virginia has improved considerably in the last six months, State Prohibition Commissioner H. E. Smith has outlined his plans for using the provisions of the Virginia ouster law to make the Old Dominion dry. Following up an announcement published several weeks ago, that he expects to get behind the local authorities in performance of their duty, Mr.
Smith revealed that he expects to employ four high-class men who will have the title of state prohibition directing agents, who will carry out provisions of the ouster statute.

In connection with this he announced that already he had appointed H. C. Tyler, of East Radford, son of former Governor Hugo Tyler, as directing agent for the western portion of the state. Mr. Tyler's jurisdiction will extend from a line running north through Craig, Roanoke, Franklin and Henry counties, south through Giles county. While the other three directing agents have not been named, Mr. Smith said he has several men in mind for the positions.

"I hope," he said, "to establish headquarters for these directing agents at Altavista or Petersburg, Va., with jurisdiction over a section including all counties west of a line running through Roanoke, Franklin and Henry, westward to the coast and south of the James river."

"Another directing agent, is planned, probably will be located at Fredericksburg, will have jurisdiction of all counties north of the James river, and east of the Alleghany mountains, east to the coast."

The fourth directing agent, who will work in the counties west of the Alleghany, probably will have headquarters at Staunton.

Mr. Smith pointed out that the state department of prohibition in the future does not expect to conduct raids in the state on its own initiative, but will assist local officers in their duties.

He said, "It is to inaugurate what may be termed an educational campaign—to see that the local authorities, the sheriffs, police and commonwealth attorneys are taught to do their duty in dry enforcement work."

"You see we only have 12 field men.
With such a small handful of help, it is practically impossible for us to go through the state trying to ferret out every law violator. On the other hand, we are glad to send out men to different localities and assist the local authorities in their enforcement work."

Mr. Smith announced that he also has named two attorneys to assist commonwealth's attorneys whenever and wherever needed. These appointees are Thomas Whitehead, of Amherst, and Major E. H. Gibson, member of the House of Delegates.

Mr. Whitehead will assist all commonwealth's attorneys in counties comprising the western United States district, and Major Gibson the commonwealth's attorneys in the eastern district. Mr. Whitehead has been connected with the department for some years.

"It will be the duty of each directing agent," declared Mr. Smith, "to travel about in the counties in his district and see that the local authorities are doing their duty in enforcement work. For this reason it is important to secure the services of high-class men, and that is what I have aimed to do. I think my appointment of Mr. Tyler indicates as much."

Mr. Tyler represented his district in the House of Delegates, and is a lawyer of considerable prominence in southwest Virginia.

Mr. Smith made it clear that the work of the directing agents, Whitehead and Gibson will in no way be connected with the duties of the directing agents. Messrs. Whitehead and Gibson will act in the capacity of consulting counsel to assist commonwealth's attorneys, while the directing agents, on a salary, will work in direct conjunction with the prohibition director's office, and make out their recommendations and reports to the state director.

Mr. Smith said he is of the belief the new prohibition enforcement plans will go a long way to make the state of Virginia as dry as it is humanly possible to do so.

"Interference," Daugherty Says of the Civil Service

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Attorney General Daugherty believes the civil service, instead of being a help to the Government, "is an interference to some extent in the discharge of public business." His attack on the branch of the Government established to select Federal employees on merit was made before the House Appropriations Committee.

"I believe if it were not for the civil service," he declared, "we could get along with fewer than two-thirds of the employees under civil service and probably get twice as much work."

Mr. Daugherty said he is "thoroughly convinced the civil service is a hindrance to the Government."

"I would rather take the recommendation of a political committee, either Democratic or Republican, for the appointment of a man or woman than to be compelled to go through the requirements of the civil service to secure an employee."

"They are hardly as ambitious, hardly as energetic, under the civil service as those not under civil service," he declared, "but before I came here as Attorney General and saw that civil service employees spend too much time in trying to work out plans to make themselves secure in their positions. While this situation cannot be remedied at present, still it is worthy of careful study."

McCormick Heirless Is a Virginia Visitor

LEXINGTON, March 29.—Miss Mathilde McCormick, of Chicago, fiancée of Max Oser, and Miss Mangold, former bookkeeper to Mr. Oser, accompanied by Harold McCormick, are at the old McCormick homestead in Rockbridge county, this State, where Cyrus McCormick invented the first reaping machine.

The McCormick party passed through Staunton Sunday and spent a few hours here yesterday before going to the old McCormick place.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

After eight years of married life, MARK SABRE, a well-educated Englishman, realizes that he and his wife, MABEL, have been drifting apart because of fundamental differences in character, Sabre's delights in poetry, in whimsical humor, in democratic ideals are not shared by the prosaic and snobbish Mabel.

In hours of leisure from his work in the firm of Fortune, East and Sabre, church and school outfitters, in which Sabre has charge of the publishing department, Sabre visits his eccentric but charming neighbors, Mr. Fergus and "the Berches." Young Ferch and his invalid mother.

Suddenly another friend appears—NONA. She is now Lady Tybar.
Sabre, bicycling to work, unexpectedly meets Nona and her dashing husband, LORD TYBAR.

GO ON WITH THE STORY.

even see anyone. He's got eyes like about four hawks!"

Sabre said, "And rides like a what do they call those things?"

"Horse," said Sabre.

She turned her head towards him.
"He does everything better than anyone else," she said. "That's Tony's characteristic. Everything. He's perfectly wonderful."

These were enthusiastic words; but she spoke them without enthusiasm; she merely pronounced them. "Well, abashed that Sabre laughed; and then said to Nona, "Why is elegant 'yours, Lady Tybar?'"

She made a little pouting motion at him with her lips. "Marko, I wish to goodness you wouldn't call me Lady Tybar. Dab it, we've called one another Nona and Marko for about a thousand years, long before I ever knew Tony. And just because I'm married—"

"And Sabre," said Lord Tybar.
"What the devil does it matter what a bloated robber minds, anyway?
That's the way to look at me, Sabre.
Trample me underfoot, my boy. I'm a pestilent survivor of the feudal system, aren't I, Nona?"

"Absolutely. So Marko, don't be a completer noodle than you already are."

"Ah, you are getting it now," Lord Tybar murmured. "I'm a noodle, too, the Searchlight says."

He somehow gave Sabre the impression of taking an even deeper enjoyment in the incident between his wife and Sabre than the enjoyment he clearly had in his own facetiousness. He was slightly turned in his saddle so as to look directly at Nona, and the listened and interposed, and turned this eyes from her face to Sabre's, and from Sabre's to hers, with his handsome head slightly cocked to one side and with much gleaming in his eyes; rather as if he had on some private mock.

"Well, about my word 'elegant,'" Nona was going on, "and why it is mine—weren't you asking?"

Sabre said he had. "Yes, why yours, Tony and I get fond of a word and then we have it for our own, whichever of us it is, and use it for everything. And elegant's mine just now. I'm dreadfully fond of it.
It's so well, elegant; there you are, you see?"

JOSEFA AND ROSA BLAZEK, SIAMESE TWINS, ON THEIR HOSPITAL BED AT CHICAGO.

SIAMESE TWINS DIE IN CHICAGO

tically recovered from her attack, is now sinking. She smiles and makes various attempts to cheer her sister as she counts off the minutes to eternity. She knows that it is now a question of minutes. After the physicians gave up the hope of saving the life of Josefa, Rosa began to all perfectly but she is making an heroic effort to maintain her mind and spirits.
The surgeons have the written consent of the twins to cut away the dead one immediately after her heart stops in an effort to save the survivor. They admit there is not one chance in 1,000 the operation will be successful. Rosa feels that she will die immediately after Josefa expires. Her chief regret is leaving her boy, 11 years old, and whose father, an Austrian soldier, perished in the world war.
"I can't go away from Frank," she said this evening, "and yet I can't exist without Josefa. Jose is part of Rosa and Rosa is part of Jose. And together it is good. But separated—ah!" But Rosa faces death blithely. She tries to comfort her sister as they lie, back to back, while death stands just inside the door waiting.

Rosa urged Josefa not to worry and seeks to divert her mind with funny little anecdotes of their old home in Czechoslovakia, but Josefa is dead to her sister's efforts. Death is already gripping her heart. Rosa knows it and also knows that soon after Josefa breathes her last, she, too, must cease to live.
An attorney for the twins sits at the bedside, hoping vainly that Josefa will regain consciousness long enough to write her will. The law requires two wills as the law considers the twins separate individuals.
"I know that Rosa wants to leave her property to her son," said the attorney, "but I don't know just what disposition Josefa wants to make of her property." She has always been fond of Franzel and, doubtless, wishes to leave her estate to her sister's boy.
The twins have accumulated considerable property in their journeyings and were planning to retire from the show business and settle down in the Czechoslovakia colony in Chicago.
The women have complete individual systems with the exception of the lower stomach, which they share in common. The operation would require the building of a new wall for the stomach of the survivor. The parents were perfectly normal.
The twins are joined by a large ligament at the hip.
The twins reached the United States in February, 1921, and started on a show tour.
They were born 41 years ago in Prague, Czechoslovakia. For the last 20 years they have toured the theaters of Europe.
Both are moderately wealthy, good-looking and well educated.
Each twin is fully developed and free from deformity for the narrow flesh strip that joins them at the hip.
They have enjoyed theaters, dinner parties and other amusements just as normal people. But where one went, the other had to go also. When they differed in taste, they settled the matter by the flip of a coin.
The two have gone to leading surgeons on both continents but always have been advised against an operation to separate them. Doctors told them such an operation undoubtedly would result in the death of at least one.
Twins of this kind are called Siamese twins because of the famous case of Eng and Chang, Chinese, born in Siam with their bodies joined. They were born in 1811 and died in 1874.
Many Siamese twins have been born but they seldom live to reach maturity as one of the hospital physicians treating Josefa.

INTERPRETER OF BEAUTY.

Mrs. T. C. Guerrant in Her Poetry Lecture Delights Wednesday Club.

The Wednesday Afternoon Club members were entertained and instructed and likewise delighted yesterday by Mrs. T. Connelly Guerrant's lecture on current poetry and particularly that in the sonnet form. Her intelligent and enthusiastic reading of the sonnets of David Morton, a brilliant young Georgian who has attained the highest rank in this difficult condensed form of verse in which all the greatest poets have written for centuries, was preceded by an analysis of the sonnet form, particularly with respect to its technique and then as to its scope and capabilities. Her address or lecture might have been appropriately entitled "Sonnets of the Seasons" for she chose for her sympathetic reading and appreciation typical fourteen-line bits portraying the four seasons of the year. Some choice bits of the work of other present-day sonnetiers were given appreciative tribute and sympathetic reading by this cultured and brilliant woman, who is perhaps the best judge and the most accomplished critic of verse who has resided in this city or vicinity.

In her general discussion of modern poetry, Mrs. Guerrant made it plain that she liked both radical and what might be called conservative or conventional verse and derived pleasure from reading both types, but she liked a change as her mood dictated. She accorded to poets of both classes merits and was able to perceive true beauty in whatever form.
After briefly summarizing the history of the sonnet and citing Petrarch, Shakespeare and other of its great exponents, the speaker addressed herself particularly to the wonderful scope of this brief form of verse and to the effective use made of it by many of the greatest poets. Her analysis of the type of verse and of the best forms of expression in the sonnet was warmed with the appreciation of beauty which so strikingly appertains to one who has the poetic sense and that insight which it gives into the hidden meaning of great verse. She pointed out the historic perspective evident in the best work of Morton and others and withal showed a close and careful study of his work and a real enthusiasm which its merits evoked. Her reading is so sympathetic and her interpretation so clear that she is enabled to reveal beauties in thought, sentiment and color and rhythm which the cursory of casual reader seldom even catches. Her work has the peculiar merit of communicating her appreciation and enthusiasm to others and of opening eyes long hidden to beauty all around them—a priceless possession too often unrealized. Whether she writes verse or not, she has the poetic temperament highly developed and eager to impart its acute appreciation of all beauty to all who would perceive and enjoy it.

For an hour and a half this thoughtful and scholarly woman held her large audience, and when she concluded her address, she was congratulated by practically all present.

Digs Way Out Of Jail Recaptured

PLYMOUTH, N. C., March 29.—Alfred Collins, negro, charged with robbery of the Potter store and post office at Wenoona, dug himself out of jail about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, but at 12 o'clock that night he was back in his cell asleep. Walter Moore, negro, held in connection with the slaying of Lennie Wynne, negro, refused to follow Collins and gave the alarm.

Collins found an old ax in the stove in the jail during the day and dug a hole through the wall, displacing about a cartload of bricks. He made immediately for the home of his parents, near Creswell, where he arrived safely, but Deputy Sheriff W. J. Starr was only three minutes behind him and took Collins into custody, returning him to Plymouth. Collins covered about 30 miles after making his escape.

Collins was arraigned before Recorder Carl L. Bailey at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and tried on a charge of breaking jail. He got six months on the Washington county roads. On the robbery charge he was sent on to the July term of superior court.

St. Louis Woman Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Louis, Mo.—"I was bothered with cramps and pains every month and had to go to bed as I could not work. My mother and my whole family always took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for such troubles and they induced me to try it and it has helped me very much. I don't have cramps any more, and I can do my housework all through the month. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends for female troubles."

Mrs. DELLA SCHOLZ, 1412 Salisbury Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Just think for a moment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use for nearly fifty years. It is prepared from medicinal plants, by the utmost pharmaceutical skill, and superior methods. The ingredients thus combined in the Compound correct the conditions which cause such annoying symptoms as had been troubling Mrs. Scholz. The Vegetable Compound exercises a restorative influence of the most desirable character, correcting the trouble in a gentle but efficient manner. This is noted by the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms.

"BINGO" BYNG IS IDOL OF CANADA—AND U. S., TOO!

LADY MARIE EVELYN BYNG, FIRST LADY OF CANADA, AND GENERAL SIR JULIAN HEDWORTH GEORGE BYNG, CANADA'S GOVERNOR-GENERAL

OTTAWA, March 30.—During Canadian Week April 2-8, eyes on both sides of the Canadian-American border will be focused on the Canadian governor-general, General Sir Julian Hedworth George Byng, highest outstanding figure in the dominion.

Byng, hero of Vimy Ridge, one of the hardest fought battles of the World War, is the idol of Canadian ex-soldiers and his popularity in the United States due to his democratic manners, is almost as great as in Canada.

His conduct in action on the western front in France gained him the nickname of "Bingo" under which he is widely known.

Byng, seventh son of the Earl of Stafford, was born Sept. 11, 1882.

At 21 he joined the Tenth Hussars and served in the Sudan expedition in 1884. In the Boer War he took part in many important engagements and became a colonel.

When the World War broke out he went to Belgium in command of the third cavalry division of the British army. He was responsible for the cavalry fighting in the second battle of Ypres.

In August, 1915, he took part in action in the Dardanelles but returned to France in February, 1916.

He was given command of the Canadian contingent May 24, 1916.

His greatest claim to fame came when heading this contingent, he used tanks in mass formation for the first time and captured Vimy Ridge, important strategic key to the German positions.

Byng was sworn in as governor-general of Canada in August, 1921. He was sent by the British government at the express request of the Canadians.

Lady Marie Evelyn Byng, wife of Byng, is known as a novelist. She is a granddaughter of the Earl of Dufferin. Lord and Lady Byng were married in 1902. They have no children.

His Recall Sought

French newspapers are demanding the recall of J. J. Jusserand as ambassador to the United States. Editors claim that he has failed to make France's post-war position understood in this country.

Moncure Cleared; Lawyers Rapped By Grand Jury

ALEXANDRIA, March 29.—Declaring that the evidence and records did not and do not show any corruption, lack of integrity or unfairness in the administration of the divorce laws or any other laws of the State of Virginia, on the part of the corporation court of Alexandria, or Judge Robinson Moncure, the report of the special committee of seven of the Alexandria Bar association, which, for the last two months has been engaged in the task of investigating the divorce situation in Alexandria, was submitted to the Alexandria Bar association Saturday afternoon and adopted by a vote of 20 to 1.

Records show that 800 divorce suits were filed in 20 months in Alexandria, out due to publicity only two new suits have been filed during the last month.

Meade Slated As Camp For Rhine Army Units

BALTIMORE, Md., March 29.— Camp Meade is among the army posts tentatively selected for troops returning to this country from Germany according to an announcement made by the war department in Washington yesterday. The announcement states that the Eighth infantry will embark at Charleston for Fort McPherson or Fort Moultrie Ga. and that other posts to receive detachments of the occupational forces included Camp Meade, Md.; Camp Humphries, Va.;

Y., and Camp Vail, N. J.

Actress Advises Corsets For Men

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 29.— Men as well as women should wear corsets in the opinion of Amelia Bingham, actress. "Trimness," she said, "is desirable not only in women, but in men as well. All women should avoid slouchiness by wearing corsets. Why shouldn't the men wear flexible ones for the same reason?"

Despite all the difficulties of reparations, Germany has managed to pay off one-third of her domestic war debt since the world war.
